* A non-commercial initiative encouraged by Albion Barn and supported by James Capper in response to the COVID-19 world pandemic. 50% of the proceeds from the sale of these ROTARY PAINTINGS will be donated to the frontline for necessary PPE, facilities and grief counselling through the not-for-profit charity, Covid Smart. Covid Smart is an organisation that was set up in early April by two women who have first-hand knowledge and experience of the front line. The organisation presents the scientific research and facts in an accessible way, contributing to research projects in Oxford, and donating their proceeds from testing and donations to help key workers needs in immediate, practical, and grass root ways. These include shower blocks, towels and soap for decontamination, PPE (for NHS staff and care home workers), and grief counselling. Some donors and partners Covid Smart have been working with include: Soho House, the White Company, and Connolly. They are further working with Anya Hindmarch, whose philanthropic initiative is creating gowns for the Royal Marsden Hospital. As of the second week of June, they have sent out:

- 20000 face masks
- 20000 aprons
- 2000 face visors
- 1500 scrub suits
- 500 towels
- 150 ear protectors
- 300 bags of toiletries
- Dozens of showers

Covid Smart was created by two women in the scientific and medical world. Ali Joy, a doctor who has a special interest in adult medicine having worked in cardiology at The National Heart Hospital and ICU at St Georges Hospital and done talks on AI and health for CogX; and Keeley Foley, a barrister who has worked in international and human rights law and is training to be a paediatric surgeon. Their small team that work with them are helping many centres of frontline health care and research excellence; the Royal Marsden Hospital, Kings College Hospital, and other South East London Hospitals, John Radcliffe Hospital, and Manchester Hospital, as well as many care homes.

Please follow their progress on their Instagram @CovidSmart.
